

DISTRICT STUDENT COUNCIL ISSUES CHALLENGE

April 17, 2020

KELOWNA, BC – Seeking to keep students connected to their school communities while learning remotely, the District Student Council has some social challenges for their fellow students. Starting Monday April 20th, these challenges will promote distance interactions, self-care, and continuous education with daily activities for 23 days.

"Our hope as a council is to have our community grow together while we're apart," said Mckinley Kemp, Co-President of the District Student Council. "We aspire to spark joy, inspiration, and support for each other in these difficult times. This is still our year and we'll get through this together."

Some of the upcoming challenges include:

- Demonstrate physical activity.
- Showcase school spirit with crazy clothes and school colours.
- Share a recent artistic creation.

A list of challenges for the week will be posted to the Instagram page @districtstudentcouncil23 on April 19th and reminders will be posted often so check the page frequently! Information will also be posted on sd23.bc.ca. Students should post their experiences to social media stories or pages with #SD23challenge and tag three others you'd like to see participate.
